

RSVP* to Lifespan's invitation to take on a meaningful volunteer experience!

Lots of people with time to spare say they don't volunteer because they have never been asked.

Lifespan is asking you to pitch in, take it on, get involved, or try something new.

*RSVP is Lifespan's volunteer program. For more than 30 years, RSVP has been connecting adults 55 and older to a wide range of interesting and rewarding volunteer experiences throughout the community.

RSVP volunteers often say that they get back much more than they give.

Being a community volunteer —

- ... boosts the spirit, and gives meaning to your own life as you reach out to help others.
- ... offers a chance to meet other people with similar interests.
- ... is an opportunity to take on something new that you've always wanted to try.
- ... develops skills that could be valuable in the job market.
- ... contributes to a good quality of life and enhances good health.
- ... is a way to transition from full-time employment and stay active in the community.

Lifespan's RSVP volunteers may be eligible for transportation reimbursement and/or supplemental accident and liability coverage. Ask us if you qualify.

You also will receive free supplemental accident/liability insurance...and invitations to special trips and events sponsored by Lifespan's RSVP.

Two Ways to RSVP

If you are just getting started, and want information about taking on a new volunteer experience that matches your interests and schedule, call RSVP at 244-8400 to set up an appointment.

or

RSVP works hand in hand with volunteer coordinators at not-for-profit agencies throughout the community. If you are currently volunteering, you can still enroll in RSVP and take advantage of our benefits. Talk to your volunteer coordinator, or call RSVP at 244-8400.
